Welcome to Astra Foods!

Astra Foods is a preferred manufacturer of the finest quality Philly beef, chicken and pork products available in today’s marketplace. Distributing to local, regional and international food chains and distributors, Astra Foods has grown a reputation not only in Philadelphia but worldwide as the leading name behind the increasingly popular Philly Cheese Steak.

Established as a family owned company in 1978, Astra Foods’ founders continue to work closely with their employees to oversee daily manufacturing processes and ensure the highest levels of consistent, quality production. Employees carry out automated manufacturing processes, administration and distribution services in a modern 100,000 square foot facility. On-site engineers ensure continuous operation of production lines while a team of dedicated, qualified specialists, including on-site 3rd party auditors, conduct regular testing to ensure quality control.

In the midst of increasing concern for safety and security in the manufacturing sector, Astra Foods has taken the step of securing their manufacturing facility to extraordinary levels. State-of-the-art hand print scanning at facility entrances and the latest technology in security cameras maintain that the manufacturing facility is safe from potential security risks. Furthermore, strategically placed inspection stations combined with metal detection technology on the production line ensure all food products are free of hazardous non-food particles.

Located in the heart of the cheese steak capital of the world, Astra Foods offers superior beef, chicken and pork products.

The Philadelphia Cheese Steak!

Most people who visit Philadelphia can’t leave without trying a Philadelphia Cheese Steak. Here are some tips to make one without having to go all the way to South Philly.

Here’s How
1. Start with your favorite Astra Foods high quality beef steak. (Astra Foods uses only fresh lean steer beef)
2. Use a fresh high quality sub roll.
3. With or without fried onions? Philly tradition says you better add em on! (yellow sweet onions are the choice in authentic Philly shops)
4. Decide if you want a steak sandwich or a cheese steak. If you elect a cheese steak, you need to decide on Philly favorites, American, provolone, or traditional cheese sauce.
5. Any add-ons? Mushrooms, peppers, pizza sauce, tomatoes? You decide. It’s your sandwich!

Start To Cook
6. Pre-heat your grill to 350 degrees.
7. Place steak on grill to begin to cook.
8. After the outside edges start to brown, flip over steak and let the other side cook.
9. Sauté onions and other add-ons while steak cooks.
10. Break apart steak with two spatulas and mix in desired vegetables.
11. If you elect to add sliced cheese, place it on the meat until slightly melted. If you choose cheese sauce, just smear it on both sides of the roll.
12. Place the roll over the meat/cheese/veggies and scoop it into the sandwich.
13. Garnish your sandwich with pizza sauce, hot or sweet peppers or pickles.
14. Enjoy your Philadelphia Cheese Steak!

In 2003 Massachusetts Democrat

Senator John Kerry in a Public Relations push to be viewed as a “regular guy”, made a major blunder and ordered his Philly Steak with Swiss cheese! Any local cheesesteak lover knows Swiss cheese is not an option and not a cool move if you want to win votes from the Philly guys on 9th Street. What you should order is “Whiz Wit”. We’re sure Senator Kerry isn’t the first one to make this mistake.

The Original Philadelphia Cheese Steak
Started “Without” Cheese

When steaks were originally sold as sandwiches in the early 1930s they were only served plain. Cheese was only added later by a manager at the popular Philadelphia lunch stand where it all began. The first cheese added was provolone. The popular “Cheese Whiz” was first marketed in 1952 and was not available for the original 1930s version.
